OF THE EEC TREATY CONCERNING GROUP ACCOUNTS

(Presented by the Commission to the Council

149 of the EEC Treaty)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

I. INTRODUCTION

This amended proposal for a seventh Directive, based on Article 54(3)(g) of the EEC Treaty and concerning group accounts has two main objectives. In the first place, account has been taken of the Opinions of the European Parliament of 16 June 1978(1) and of the Economic and Social Committee of 24 February 1977 (2). In addition, the adoption by the Council on 25 July 1978 of the fourth Directive, based on the same article of the Treaty and concerning the annual accounts of certain kinds of company (3), has made necessary a series of amendments to the proposal for a seventh directive which are listed in the annex to this memorandum. The memorandum itself is limited to an explanation of the amendments which have been made in the light of the two Opinions cited above.

II. COMMENTS ON THE ARTICLES

Article 5(d), Article 17a, Article 20(4a), Article 20(b))

Parliament requested, in the form of an amendment to Article 9, that information should be given concerning holdings in enterprises presumed to be dependent within the meaning of Article 2(2) but not forming part of a group since they are not managed on a unified basis. The Commission considers that, in expressing this view, Parliament did not wish to propose an extension of the scope of the obligation to consolidate in itself, which explains why Parliament expressed its full agreement with the definitions contained in Articles 1 to 4. In order to satisfy the wishes of Parliament, the Commission, in its amended proposal, has envisaged the following provisions :

1. Inclusion of undertakings between which there exists a relationship of the kind specified in Article 2(2) in the category of affiliated undertakings (Article 5(d);

(1) OJ No. 163, 10.7.78, p. 60.

(2) OJ No. 75, 26.3.77, p. 5.

(3) OJ No. L 222, 14.8.78, p. 11.

2. Application of the equity method to holdings in the capital of associated undertakings within the meaning of Article 1 which are presumed to be dependent within the meaning of Article 2(2). This rule shall apply in the case of holdings of an undertaking forming part of a group (Article 17), and in the case of an undertaking not part of a group (Article 17a).

3. In the case of holdings in the capital of undertakings which are not associated, but which are presumed to be dependent, indication in the notes of the differences between the values which figure in the balance sheet and the values according to the equity method (Article 20(4a) and Article 20b).

Article 6a

According to the original proposal (Article 6(2)(a)), each dependent group undertaking having its registered office within the Community and through which other group undertakings are dominated is obliged to draw up sub-group consolidated accounts. Parliament considers that an obligation of this kind imposed generally on sub-groups would entail the imposition of excessive costs and in the present circumstances, would be of limited interest. Sub-group accounts should not therefore be drawn up when the dominant undertaking publishes accounts for the group as a whole in conformity with the seventh Directive. The present amended proposal suggests an intermediate solution. While retaining Parliament's conception of the subsidiary character of sub-group accounts in relation to the accounts of the group as a whole, the Commission considers, in agreement with the opinion of the EEC Accountants' Study Group, that other conditions must be fulfilled if the omission of sub-group accounts is to be justified. In particular, reference should be made to the agreement of shareholders or members of the dependent undertaking concerned, to a declaration that the dominant undertakings guarantees the commitments entered into by the dependent undertaking, and to certain disclosure provisions in this context.

Article 6b

The initial proposal (Article 6(2)(b)) dealt with the case of several dependent undertakings within the EEC which find themselves at the same level in relation to a dominant undertaking outside the EEC. In this situation, sub-group accounts would also have to be drawn up relating to all these dependent undertakings as well as all other group undertakings dominated through them. Parliament, and also the Economic and Social Committee consider such an obligation too onerous. Consolidated accounts drawn up for the group as a whole should suffice on condition that certain supplementary information is given on the activities of the group within the Community. The Commission is of the opinion that in these particular cases also, the omission of sub-group accounts of this kind could only be justified under the same conditions as those proposed for Article 6a. In addition, the Commission is in favour of the idea put forward by Parliament of requiring information which distinguishes for certain activities between those inside and those outside the Community. However, this break down should be made in the accounts of all groups and sub-groups wherever the undertaking which is obliged to draw up the accounts has its registered office. The break down seems to be appropriate as regards employees (Article 20(8)), categories of activity and geographical markets (Article 20(7)), as well as research and development (Article 22(2)(d)).

Article 8

The original proposal provided that the Member States should apply the Directive to banks and insurance companies "in so far as possible". Parliament and the Economic and Social Committee consider this text too imprecise. Parliament has proposed an enumeration of the articles that the Member States need not apply to the enterprises in question. In this amended proposal, the Commission adopts Parliament's view by limiting the exemptions which are possible until subsequent co-ordination to the rules relating to structure (Article 11) and valuation (Articles 15 and 16) for the consolidated accounts and by making it clear that these exemptions apply only to a group undertaking, whether dominant or dependent, which carries out the activity in one of the sectors specified.

Article 10(3)

The amended proposal has followed Parliament's Opinion in specifying that the audit of group accounts required by Article 23 shall apply to the issue of the non-consolidation of a group undertaking by reason of its minor importance for the purposes of giving a true and fair view of the group's situation.

Article 14(1)(e)

The original proposal required a separate audit of the interim accounts of a group undertaking. To avoid supplementary expenses, Parliament expressed itself in favour of an audit for these accounts at the same time as the audit of the group accounts. The amended proposal adopts this solution.

Article 15(d)

In accordance, as far as substance is concerned, with Parliament and taking its inspiration from a provision in the fourth Directive (see paragraph 4 of the annex), the concept of deferred taxation has been re-defined.

Article 16

The amended proposal has adopted in their entirety the Opinions of Parliament and the Economic and Social Committee regarding the writing-off of consolidation differences which cannot be attributed to an item in the consolidated balance sheet in applying the provisions of the fourth directive on writing-off good-will (see paragraph 5 of annex).

AMENDED PROPOSAL

Proposal for a Seventh Council Directive pursuant to Article 54 (3) (g) of the EEC Treaty concerning group accounts

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community, and in particular Article 54 (3) (g) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament,

Having regard to the opinion of the Economic and Social Committee,

Whereas Directive ... of the ... ⁽²⁾ for coordination of national legislation regarding the annual accounts of limited liability companies applies to the accounts of individual companies;

Whereas at present a growing number of companies are no longer managed independently but belong to groups in which management of the undertakings belonging to the group is coordinated in the interests of the whole group; whereas the annual accounts of companies belonging to a group cannot by themselves give a true and fair view of their position; whereas group accounts should therefore be drawn up in order to give a true and fair view of the economic unit constituted by the group and whereby the position of a company belonging to the group can be determined more easily; whereas coordination of national laws on group accounts is therefore essential in order to complete the scope of the Directive referred to above and to attain the objective that information required to be published by companies within the Community to protect the interests of their members, their employees and third parties be drawn up on equivalent lines and may be duly compared;

Whereas groups of companies are in fact economic units in which all the member companies and undertakings are managed on a central and unified basis in the interest of the whole group; whereas this central and unified management within a group is normally exercised as a result of the relationships of dependence linking group undertakings;

Whereas, however, a group sometimes consists of undertakings which exist on an equal footing with one another; whereas a definition of groups must be given which takes account of these economic characteristics;

Whereas the purpose of coordinating laws on group accounts is to protect all the interests subsisting in limited liability companies; whereas in order to provide such protection, it must become compulsory to draw up group accounts both in respect of companies heading a group and those which are in a position of dependency within a group; whereas in order that the information given is complete, it is also necessary that, when a group is organized with several levels, special consolidated accounts be drawn up for the different parts of the group (sub-group accounts);

Whereas group accounts should give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities, financial position and results of the group; whereas the annual accounts of all the undertakings belonging to a group should in principle therefore be required to be consolidated; whereas when the accounts are consolidated, the relevant items in the annual accounts of group undertakings should be incorporated in full in the group accounts, with interests held by persons whereas in order that the information given is complete, it is also necessary that, when a group is organized with several levels, special consolidated accounts be drawn up for the different parts of the group (sub-group accounts) unless the dominant undertaking has drawn up a consolidated account for the whole group in accordance with this Directive and the shareholders or members, as well as any creditors have been adequately protected;

outside the group being shown separately; whereas, however, the necessary corrections should be made in order to eliminate any transactions or financial relationships between group undertakings;

Whereas a number of general principles relating to the drawing up of group accounts and the valuation of items in those accounts must be laid down in order to ensure that items are presented coherently and can be readily compared both as regards the methods used to value them and the periods covered by the accounts;

Whereas holdings in the capital of undertakings over which group undertakings exert a significant influence without however controlling such undertakings should also be valued realistically in the group accounts by taking account of the results obtained by the relevant undertakings;

Whereas it is of vital importance for all those having an interest in a company belonging to a group that information on the structure of groups should be published; whereas it is therefore essential that the notes to the group accounts should contain precise information on the undertakings belonging to the group and the nature of the legal relationship connecting them to the group,
