Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

on the position to be taken on behalf of the European Union at the 18th meeting of the Committee of the Parties to the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence on the adoption of recommendations and conclusions addressed to 10 State Parties on their implementation of that Convention, with regard to matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. SUBJECT MATTER OF THE PROPOSAL

This proposal concerns the decision establishing the position to be taken on the Union's behalf, at the 18th meeting of Committee of the Parties ('CoP') of the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence ('the Istanbul Convention' or 'the Convention') on 5-6 June 2025, in connection with the envisaged adoption of eight draft recommendations and two draft conclusions addressed to 10 Parties on their implementation of the Convention².

2. CONTEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

2.1. The Istanbul Convention

The Istanbul Convention lays down a comprehensive and harmonised set of rules to prevent and combat violence against women and domestic violence in Europe and beyond. The Convention entered into force on 1 August 2014.

The EU signed the Convention in June 2017. and completed the accession procedure with the deposit of two instruments of approval on 28 June 2023, triggering the entry into force of the Convention for the EU on 1 October 2023. The EU has acceded to the Convention as regards matters falling within its exclusive competence, namely with regard to matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union¹ and with regard to matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters, asylum and non-refoulement². All EU Member States have signed the Convention and 22 have ratified it³.

2.2. The Committee of the Parties

The CoP⁴ is composed of the representatives of the Parties to the Convention. Parties must endeavour to nominate, as their representatives, experts of the highest possible rank in the field of preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence⁵. The tasks entrusted to the CoP are listed in Rule 1 of its Rules of Procedure⁶. On 1 October 2023 the EU became a Party to the Istanbul Convention, and as such a member of the CoP (Article 67(1) of the Convention).

2.3. The monitoring mechanism of the Istanbul Convention

The Istanbul Convention establishes a monitoring mechanism to ensure effective implementation by the Parties⁷. The purpose is to assess how the Convention is put into practice and to provide guidance to the Parties. The monitoring mechanism consists of two distinct, but interacting, bodies: an independent expert body (the Group of Experts on Action against Violence against Women and Domestic Violence ‘GREVIO’); and the CoP.

GREVIO is an independent group of experts tasked to monitor the implementation of the Istanbul Convention on a country-by-country basis, in accordance with Article 66(1) of the Convention. The monitoring procedure is set out in Article 68 of the Convention. In accordance with Article 68(1) of the Convention, new Parties are required to submit a report, based on a questionnaire prepared by GREVIO, detailing legislative and other measures taken to give effect to the Convention. GREVIO prepares a report on the measures taken by the Party concerned to implement the Convention and gives suggestions and proposals on the way in which the Party may deal with problems that have been identified⁸.

Based on the GREVIO reports, the CoP, in accordance with Article 68(12) of the Convention, may adopt recommendations addressed to the Party concerned on the implementation of the Convention and set a date for the Party to submit a response on their implementation. Based on this provision, the CoP has been adopting recommendations to Parties which differentiate between actions that should be taken as soon as possible, with a requirement to report back within a three year-period, and actions that while important, do not carry the same level of immediacy. At the end of the three-year period, the Party must report back to the CoP on the progress made in implementing the recommendations that were addressed to it. On the basis of this information, and any additional information obtained, , the Secretariat of the Committee⁹ prepares the conclusions on the implementation of the recommendations –in relation to each Party under review, which the CoP adopts.

As the baseline evaluation procedure has been completed for nearly all Parties, GREVIO decided in late 2022 to move to the next phase in its evaluation. Under Article 68(3) of the Convention, GREVIO’s evaluation procedures following the baseline evaluation shall be divided into rounds (‘thematic evaluation rounds’). The first thematic evaluation round is entitled ‘Building Trust by Delivering Support, Protection and Justice’ which runs from 2023 to 2031. While the baseline evaluation covered around 60 articles of the Istanbul Convention, the new thematic evaluation procedure addresses 20 articles, namely Articles 3, 7, 8, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 31, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53 and 56. These articles set out standards for law enforcement agencies, criminal justice actors, the provision of general and specialist support services for victims, and an overall victim-centred approach. The aim is to provide a more in-depth assessment of these areas, focusing on the progress made under each article.

In its Opinion 1/19 (Istanbul Convention) of 6 October 2021 (EU:C:2021:832, paragraph 305), the Court of Justice has confirmed that a significant part of the obligations of the Convention are, in essence, binding on the Union as regards the staff in its administration and as regards the member of the public visiting the premises and buildings of its institutions, agencies and bodies. As regards the 20 specific provisions that the first thematic evaluation round covers, the Court has confirmed that 17 of those provisions also apply with regard to the Union and its own public administration, namely all of the above mentioned provisions except Articles 3, 31 and 48 of the Convention. At the same time, the extent of the Union's obligations should be interpreted bearing in mind its specific nature and powers. In particular, since the EU's public administration is not endowed with law enforcement powers, recommendations relating to matters of law enforcement, such as the issue of emergency barring orders, should be interpreted as requiring to ensure the safety of the victim within the limits of its powers, for example by refusing alleged perpetrators access to the premises of the institutions.

⁷ Article 1(2) of the Istanbul Convention.

⁸ Article 68(10) of the Istanbul Convention.

⁹ The applicable procedure for supervising the implementation and the reporting is defined in the ‘Framework for supervising the implementation of the recommendations addressed to state parties’, adopted by the CoP on 13 April 2021, IC-CP/Inf(2021)2.

At its last meeting in December 2024, the CoP adopted a Decision on the recommendations to be adopted by the Committee of the Parties in light of GREVIO's reports adopted as part of its first thematic round of evaluation [IC-CP(2024)10 rev].

To date, the CoP's practice has been to adopt recommendations and conclusions based on consensus at its meetings which take place upon request¹⁰ by one third of the Parties, the President of the Committee of the Parties or the Secretary General, normally twice a year.

2.4. The envisaged acts of the Committee of the Parties

On 5-6 June 2025, during its 18th meeting, it is foreseen that the CoP will proceed with the adoption of the following eight draft recommendations based on the first thematic evaluation round, and three conclusions ('the envisaged acts' or 'the draft recommendations and conclusions'):

- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Albania [IC-CP(2025)2-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Austria [IC-CP(2025)3-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Denmark [IC-CP(2025)4-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Finland [IC-CP(2025)5-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Monaco [IC-CP(2025)6-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Montenegro [IC-CP(2025)7-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Spain [IC-CP(2025)8-prov];
- Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Sweden [IC-CP(2025)9-prov];

¹⁰ Article 67(2) of the Convention.

- Conclusions on the implementation of recommendations in respect of San Marino adopted by the Committee of the Parties [IC-CP(2025)10-prov]; and
- Conclusions on the implementation of recommendations in respect of Slovenia adopted by the Committee of the Parties [IC-CP(2025)11-prov].

3. POSITION TO BE TAKEN ON THE UNION’S BEHALF

The envisaged acts are addressed to 10 Parties and include recommendations (based on the first thematic evaluation procedure) on measures to be taken to implement the Istanbul Convention as well as conclusions on the Parties’ implementation of previous recommendations. They concern the implementation of provisions of the Convention by relevant institutions and the public administration. The Union has acceded to the Convention insofar as it applies to its institutions and public administration and has exclusive competence to accept obligations set out in the Convention with regard to its own institutions and public administration, within the scope of Article 336 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU). It is therefore appropriate to establish the position to be taken on the Union’s behalf in the CoP with regard to institutions and public administration of the Union, as the envisaged acts are capable of decisively influencing the content of Union law in that they may affect the interpretation of relevant provisions of the Convention in the future.

The draft recommendations and conclusions on matters falling within the competence of the Union with regard to its own institutions and public administration, are in line with Union’s policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law. It is therefore proposed that the Union does not object to the adoption of the draft recommendations and conclusions at the 18th meeting of the CoP.

4. LEGAL BASIS

4.1. Procedural legal basis

4.1.1. Principles

Article 218(9) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU) provides for decisions establishing ‘the positions to be adopted on the Union’s behalf in a body set up by an agreement, when that body is called upon to adopt acts having legal effects, with the exception of acts supplementing or amending the institutional framework of the agreement.’

The concept of ‘acts having legal effects’ includes acts that have legal effects by virtue of the rules of international law governing the body in question. It also includes instruments that do not have a binding effect under international law, but that are ‘capable of decisively influencing the content of the legislation adopted by the EU legislature’¹¹.

4.1.2. Application to the present case

The CoP is a body set up by the Istanbul Convention. The envisaged acts which the CoP is called upon to adopt constitute acts having legal effects. The envisaged acts are capable of decisively influencing the content of Union law, because they may affect the interpretation of the relevant provisions of the Istanbul Convention in the future. Therefore, the procedural legal basis for the proposed decision is Article 218(9) TFEU.

¹¹ Judgment of the Court of Justice of 7 October 2014, Germany v Council, C-399/12, ECLI:EU:C:2014:2258, paragraphs 61 to 64.

4.2. Substantive legal basis

4.2.1. Principles

The substantive legal basis for a decision under Article 218(9) TFEU depends primarily on the objective and content of the envisaged act in respect of which a position is taken on the Union's behalf. If the envisaged act pursues two aims or has two components and if one of those aims or components is identifiable as the main one, whereas the other is merely incidental, the decision under Article 218(9) TFEU must be founded on a single substantive legal basis, namely that required by the main or predominant aim or component.

With regard to an envisaged act that simultaneously pursues a number of objectives, or that has several components, which are inseparably linked without one being incidental to the other, the substantive legal basis of a decision under Article 218(9) TFEU will have to include, exceptionally, the various corresponding legal bases.

4.2.2. Application to the present case

As regards the substantive legal basis, the EU has acceded to the Istanbul Convention as regards matters falling within its exclusive competence, namely with regard to matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union¹² and with regard to matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters, asylum and non-refoulement¹³. The EU's accession to the Istanbul Convention was split into two separate Council decisions to take into account the special position of Denmark and Ireland with respect to Title V TFEU. Consequently, the decision establishing the position to be taken on the Union's behalf in the CoP also needs to be split into two decisions, when the relevant recommendations or conclusions concern both matters. The proposed decision concerns matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union. Therefore, the substantive legal basis for this decision is Article 336 TFEU.

4.3. Conclusion

The legal basis of the proposed decision should be Article 336 TFEU, in conjunction with Article 218(9) TFEU.

Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

on the position to be taken on behalf of the European Union at the 18th meeting of the Committee of the Parties to the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence on the adoption of recommendations and conclusions addressed to 10 State Parties on their implementation of that Convention, with regard to matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 336, in conjunction with Article 218(9) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

Whereas:

- (1) The Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence ('the Convention') was concluded by the Union by Council Decision (EU) 2023/1075¹⁴ with regard to institutions and public administration of the Union, and by Council Decision (EU) 2023/1076¹⁵ with regard to matters related to judicial cooperation in criminal matters, asylum and non-refoulement, insofar as they fall within the exclusive competence of the Union, and entered into force for the Union on 1 October 2023.
- (2) Pursuant to Article 66(1) of the Convention, the Group of experts on action against violence against women and domestic violence ('GREVIO') is to monitor the implementation of the Convention by the Parties. In accordance with Article 68(11) of the Convention, GREVIO is to adopt its report and conclusions on the measures taken by the Party concerned to implement the provisions of the Convention.
- (3) The Committee of the Parties to the Convention may adopt recommendations addressed to the Party concerned, in accordance with Article 68(12) of the Convention. The recommendations are based on the GREVIO report and differentiate between those measures which the Committee of the Parties considers the Party should take as soon as possible, with a requirement to report back within a three-year period, and those measures which, while important, do not carry the same level of immediacy. At the end of the three-year period, the Party must report back to the Committee of the Parties on the measures taken, within 10 specific areas of the Convention. On the basis of that information and any additional information obtained, the Committee of the Parties adopts conclusions on the implementation of the recommendations, prepared by the Secretariat of the Committee.

- (4) Pursuant to Article 68(3) of the Convention, the evaluation procedures following GREVIO's initial baseline evaluation procedure are to be divided into rounds ('thematic evaluation rounds'). The first thematic evaluation round is entitled 'Building Trust by Delivering Support, Protection and Justice' and addresses 20 specific articles of the Convention, namely Articles 3, 7, 8, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 18, 20, 22, 25, 31, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53 and 56. At its last meeting on 17-December 2024, the CoP adopted a Decision on the recommendations to be adopted by the Committee of the Parties in light of GREVIO's reports adopted as part of its first thematic round of evaluation [IC-CP(2024)10 rev].
- (5) The Committee of the Parties, during its 18th meeting on 5-6 June 2025, is expected to adopt eight draft recommendations based on the first thematic evaluation round entitled 'Building Trust by Delivering Support, Protection and Justice' and two draft conclusions, on the implementation of the Convention by 10 Parties' (the 'draft recommendations and conclusions'):
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Albania [IC-CP(2025)2-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Austria [IC-CP(2025)3-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Denmark [IC-CP(2025)4-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Finland [IC-CP(2025)5-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Monaco [IC-CP(2025)6-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Montenegro [IC-CP(2025)7-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Spain [IC-CP(2025)8-prov];
 - Recommendations on improving trust by delivering support, protection and justice on the basis of the Istanbul Convention by Sweden [IC-CP(2025)9-prov];
 - Conclusions on the implementation of recommendations in respect of San Marino adopted by the Committee of the Parties [IC-CP(2025)10-prov]; and

- Conclusions on the implementation of recommendations in respect of Slovenia adopted by the Committee of the Parties [IC-CP(2025)11-prov].
- (6) The Union has exclusive competence to accept obligations set out in the Convention with regard to its own institutions and public administration, within the scope of Article 336 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. In its Opinion 1/19 (Istanbul Convention) of 6 October 2021, EU:C:2021:832, paragraph 305, the Court of Justice of the European Union held that a significant part of the obligations of the Convention relating to the adoption of preventive and protection measures are, in essence, binding on the Union as regards the staff in its administration and as regards the members of the public visiting the premises and buildings of its institutions, agencies and bodies. Moreover, in paragraph 307 of the same Opinion, the Court held that the Union should not confine itself to establishing minimum requirements or supporting measures, but should itself ensure that these obligations are fully satisfied. At the same time, the extent of the Union's obligations should be interpreted bearing in mind its specific nature and powers. In particular, since the Union's public administration is not endowed with law enforcement powers, recommendations relating to matters of law enforcement, such as the issue of emergency barring orders, should be interpreted as requiring to ensure the safety of the victim within the limits of its powers, for example by refusing alleged perpetrators access to the premises of the institutions.
 - (7) The draft recommendations and conclusions concern the implementation of provisions of the Convention which also apply to the Union with regard to its own institutions and public administration. It is therefore appropriate to establish the position to be taken on the Union's behalf in the Committee of the Parties with regard to matters related to institutions and public administration of the Union, as the envisaged acts are capable of decisively influencing the content of Union law in that they may affect the interpretation of relevant provisions of the Convention in the future.
 - (8) As regards Albania, the draft recommendations on its implementation of the Convention include the need to ensure that relevant policies and measures to prevent and combat all forms of violence against women are provided with sufficient and sustainable funding, including through transparent procedures to secure funding for women's rights organisations (Article 8 of the Convention); promote awareness-raising campaigns or programmes and to regularly assess their impact (Article 12 of the Convention); take measures to strengthen the effectiveness of training, including in the light of staff turnover (Article 15 of the Convention); expand the existing perpetrator programmes and introduce programmes aimed specifically at perpetrators of sexual violence (Article 16 of the Convention); increase the funding and the number of available services for women victims, especially for women with special needs (Article 20 of the Convention); ensure victims have access to comprehensive healthcare services (Article 20 of the Convention); ensure helplines receive funding (Article 22 of the Convention); ensure that victims of sexual violence have access to forensic examination free of charge (Article 25 of the Convention); take measures to improve reporting by women victims and ensure a victim-centred and gender-sensitive response in such cases (Articles 49 and 50); ensure that risk assessment and risk management procedures are applied in cases concerning all forms of violence covered by the Convention (Article 51 of the Convention); make better use of emergency barring orders (Article 52 of the Convention); ensure that protection orders are available and accessible to all victims (Article 53 of the Convention), evaluate the implementation of protection measures and ensure they are in line with the Convention

(Article 56 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Albania.

- (9) As regards Austria, the draft recommendations on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to develop a long-term comprehensive action plan/strategic policy document on all forms of violence covered by the Convention (Article 7 of the Convention); collect disaggregated data on the number of women and girls who contact the social services seeking help in relation to their experiences of violence against women (Article 11 of the Convention); inform victims of the availability of support services (Article 12 of the Convention); monitor how teaching materials approach issues related to domestic violence and violence against women (Article 14 of the Convention); provide training for staff in general support services (Article 15 of the Convention); ensure that victims have access to sustainable and affordable housing options and ensure the issuance of forensic reports documenting injuries (Article 20 of the Convention); ensure that places in shelters are available (Article 22 of the Convention); set up further sexual violence referral centres across the country with qualified professionals who provide support and referrals in line with the Convention, and in the interim ensure that existing medical services offer appropriate support to victims (Article 25 of the Convention); ensure that sanctions are commensurate with the gravity of the offence in all cases concerning forms of violence against women covered by the Convention (Articles 49 and 50) and ensure the use of protection orders and avoid gaps between barring orders and protection orders (Articles 52 and 53 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Austria.
- (10) As regards Denmark, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to ensure that the gendered nature of all forms of violence against women and domestic violence receives the necessary policy attention (Article 7 of the Convention); pursue efforts to implement gender-responsive budgeting (Article 8 of the Convention); guarantee confidentiality in data collection (Article 11 of the Convention); prioritise a gender-sensitive approach in preventive initiatives (Article 12 of the Convention); maximise the impact of training efforts by drawing on the expertise of women's rights organisations (Article 15 of the Convention); set-up institutionalised structures for cooperation to ensure effective multi-agency cooperation (Article 18 of the Convention); ensure victims have access to long-term psychological counselling (Articles 22 and 25 of the Convention); raise awareness among criminal justice actors about new criminal legislation (Articles 49 and 50 of the Convention); ensure that risk assessment is conducted in coordination with relevant actors (Article 51 of the Convention); increase the use of emergency barring orders and protection orders to ensure victim protection (Articles 52 and 53 of the Convention) and ensure the proper implementation of victim protection measures in investigations and judicial proceedings (Article 56 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Denmark.
- (11) As regards Finland, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to develop a long-term national strategy to ensure a comprehensive, coordinated approach (Article 7 of the Convention); ensure sustainable financing mechanisms for non-governmental organisations providing specialist support to victims (Article 8 of the Convention); establish standardised data categories and harmonise data collection systems (Article 11 of the Convention); regularly conduct awareness-raising campaigns (Article 12 of the Convention); evaluate training and draw on the expertise of women's rights organisations (Article 15 of the Convention); establish perpetrator programmes for domestic violence (Article 16 of the Convention); establish institutionalised multi-agency coordination structures among relevant actors (Article 18 of the Convention); establish support services to facilitate victims' recovery and independence (Article 20 of the Convention) ensure the availability of support services (Article 22 of the Convention); ensure the geographical distribution of rape crisis centres to ensure support to all victims of sexual violence (Article 25 of the Convention); ensure timely investigations and proactive evidence collection beyond victim statements to enable effective prosecution of violence against women cases (Articles 49 and 50 of the Convention) take measures to establish a standardised risk assessment mechanism applied systematically (Article 51 of the Convention); and increase the use of emergency barring orders and strengthen the use of restraining and protection orders (Article 52 and 53 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Finland.

- (12) As regards Monaco, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to develop a long-term overarching strategy to achieve a comprehensive and coordinated policy approach (Article 7 of the Convention); continue to develop the collection of data on all forms of violence against women covered by the Convention (Article 11 of the Convention); expand measures to prevent domestic violence to include other forms of violence covered by the Istanbul Convention (Article 12 of the Convention); produce teaching material on violence against women (Article 14 of the Convention); set up programmes for perpetrators of violence (Article 16 of the Convention); set up a helpline for women that are victims of violence (Article 22 of the Convention); set up a rape crisis and sexual violence referral centre so that victim have access to psychological counselling and support (Article 25 of the Convention); ensure professionals involved in criminal proceedings have sufficient expertise and receive gender-sensitive training (Articles 49 and 50 of the Convention); standardise the practise of coordinated risk assessment to relevant services on all forms of violence covered by the Convention (Article 51 of the Convention) and ensure the rights and interests of victims are protected during investigations and judicial proceedings (Article 56 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Monaco.
- (13) As regards Montenegro, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to ensure appropriate human and financial resources for policies, measures and legislation aimed at preventing and combating violence against women, and to ensure sustainable funding for non-governmental organisations (Article 8 of the Convention); ensure the collection and disaggregation of data by all relevant stakeholders (Article 11 of the Convention); step up efforts to implement regular preventive measures, conduct awareness-raising campaigns and highlight the heightened risk of violence faced by victims of intersectional discrimination (Article 12 of the Convention); increase efforts to address stereotypes and prejudices towards women in the areas of formal education, culture and media (Article 14); ensure training on violence against women for all professionals who come into contact with victims (Article 15 of the Convention); set up and expand programmes for perpetrators of domestic violence and perpetrators of sexual violence (Article 16 of the Convention); increase efforts to boost multi-agency cooperation (Article 18 of the Convention); ensure that healthcare providers give priority to women victims of violence against women and domestic violence and respect their privacy (Article 20 of the Convention); increase the availability of specialist support services and counselling for victims (Article 22 of the Convention); set up rape crisis centres and/or sexual violence referral throughout the country to provide support and to refer victims to psychological support (Article 25 of the Convention); prevent the repeated questioning of victims of violence against women (Article 49 and 50 of the Convention); ensure that risk assessments are systematically carried out in cases of domestic violence (Article 51 of the Convention); ensure that emergency barring orders are available and protection orders effectively monitored (Articles 52 and 53 of the Convention); and ensure the effective use of existing protection measures and introduce additional protection measures in line with the Convention (Article 56 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Montenegro.

- (14) As regards Spain, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to involve non-governmental organisations in policymaking and in the evaluation of policies and measures (Article 7 of the Convention); ensure that data collected are disaggregated (Article 11 of the Convention); teach children about the central role of consent in sexual relationships (Article 14 of the Convention); step up the training of all relevant professionals dealing with victims and perpetrators of violence against women (Article 15 of the Convention); improve the compliance of perpetrator programmes with the Convention (Article 16 of the Convention) set up multi-agency cooperation mechanisms (Article 18 of the Convention); ensure victims of sexual violence have access to support services (Article 25 of the Convention); address factors that prevent victims from reporting and that lead to secondary victimisation (Articles 49 and 50 of the Convention); and ensure competent authorities have access to emergency barring orders in line with the Convention and take measures to properly address breaches of protection orders (Articles 52 and 53 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Spain.
- (15) As regards Sweden, the draft recommendation on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to ensure that policies on violence against women consider the needs of victims exposed to intersectional discrimination and evaluate strategies to assess their impact (Articles 7 of the Convention); ensure sustainable funding levels of women's rights organisations that run specialist support services (Article 8 of the Convention); ensure wider prevention measures for all forms of violence against women (Article 12 of the Convention); ensure the topics and principles listed in Article 14 of the Convention are taught in practice (Article 14 of the Convention); introduce systematic training on all forms of violence covered by the Convention for relevant professionals ensure evaluation (Article 15 of the Convention); develop minimum standards for perpetrator programmes in line with the Convention and ensure evaluation (Article 16 of the Convention); adopt coordination and cooperation mechanisms among relevant agencies (Article 18 of the Convention); ensure that access to healthcare for victims is provided without discrimination (Article 20); ensure access to shelters for all victims (Article 22 of the Convention); ensure a sufficient number of rape crisis and/or sexual violence centres throughout the country (Article 25 of the Convention); take measures to encourage reporting by women at risk of intersectional discrimination (Articles 49 and 50 of the Convention); ensure that risk assessments are systematically carried out for victims and their children, in a coordinated manner (Article 51 of the Convention) and take measures to ensure that emergency barring orders, restraining and protection orders ('non-contact orders for the joint home') are issued swiftly with immediate effect and are effectively monitored (Article 52 and 53 of the Convention). As the recommendations on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the recommendation addressed to Sweden.

- (16) As regards San Marino, the draft conclusions on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to ensure that the national coordinating body coordinates with civil society organisations (Article 10 of the Convention); and regularly conduct victimisation surveys and to promote research activities (Article 11 of the Convention). As the conclusions on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the conclusion addressed to San Marino.
- (17) As regards Slovenia, the draft conclusions on its implementation of the Convention includes the need to assign the role of the coordinating body to fully institutionalised entities and to ensure the necessary human and financial resources (Article 10 of the Convention); ensure the comprehensive collection of data on all forms of violence under the Convention (Article 11 of the Convention) and to take measures to encourage reporting of all forms of violence against women (Article 49 and 50 of the Convention). As the conclusions on these matters are in line with the Union's policies and objectives and do not raise any concerns with respect to Union law, the position of the Union should be to not object to the adoption of the conclusion addressed to Slovenia,
